Bloody Street Fighting Is Reported in Kavalla After Aerial Assault; Loyalists Rise Against Insurrectionists.

Marksmen Zoom Low to Ground To Rake Barracks Near Seres With Machine-Gun Fire.

ATHENS, March 6.—Bloody hand-to-hand fighting in the streets of ancient Kavalla tonight followed an attack by 20 government bombing planes, which sowed death and destruction in the ranks of Macedonian rebels.

After raking Kavalla with machine guns and raining bombs down upon it, the bombers roared away across the rebels' domain to strafe the town, which sowed death and destruction in the ranks of Macedonian rebels.

A five-hour battle, the outcome of which was not disclosed in semi-official messages reaching the capital from the front, followed the aerial raid on the old Aegean seaport as residents, described as supporters of the government, fled in front of the revolutionaries who had invaded it.

Reds Asia. Ad.

So hard pressed by the government's land and air forces was General Demetrios Cammenos, the rebel commander, that he wirelessed an appeal to the rebels to "put in" at Kavalla and the entire Aetos valley, he had reported missing from its tabled armistice.

As the aerial marksmen, zooming down as low as 60 feet, rained bombs upon the rebels' barracks and swept their camps with machine gunfire, three Greek divisions, pressing in at the moment from as many sides, chased at the rebels and weather which impeded their advance.

Kavalla's panic-stricken inhabitants, reported mostly hostile to the rebels, scurried like frightened chickens for shelter at the approach of the air raiders, returning pilots said.

A cigar manufacturer city on the Bay of Kavalla, the rebels' stronghold, has been battered by war.

Hermitage, Noted Home, Bought by Henry Ford

Capitalist to Remove Ante-bellum Mansion to Georgia Plantation and Spend $350,000 Converting It Into Winter Home.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—buff is about 1,500 feet long and on it there is a grove of oak trees, some of which approach 200 years in age. The recreation which Mr. Ford has in mind will make a magnificent re-production of an ante-bellum southern plantation home of the highest type. The idealization of what can be done, cultivated and improved by Mr. and Mrs. Ford and from that time the interest of Mr. Ford was aroused in the possibilities of bringing into existence at Richmond a ideal winter home.

The Hermitage tract contains 370 acres with a frontage of near 2,600 on the Savannah river, and was acquired today by the port authority of Savannah for possible use in industrial development.

The price paid for the plantation, which is the old McAlpin estate, while its mansion has been famous as one of the most perfect examples of ante-bellum architecture in the south, was given as $135,000.

The buildings to be removed by Mr. Ford include the mansion, the brick buildings adjacent to it built for a mill or other purposes before the War Between the States, the slave quarters, and the remains of the brick walls of the old slave quarters. The buildings will be reconstructed. Mr. Ford announces, or re-created on the great bluff at Richmond plantation, formerly called "Dublin," on the Ogeechee river in Bryan county, That

NRA Replacement Accident Scouted Favored by F. D. R. in Heiress' Death

George Says Roosevelt Would Substitute Voluntary Agreements.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—A move to replace NRA and its complicated code structure with a largely voluntary system of self-government in industry gained headway today in Congress with evidence of administration support.

Senator George, democrat, Georgia, indicated after a conference with President Roosevelt that he felt the executive's a much more complete replacement of NRA than the chief executive outlined in his message to Congress a fortnight ago.

The Georgian predicted that no legislation to extend NRA would pass Congress unless its powers were drastically curbed.

Without attempting to give the administration's views in detail, George outlined the kind of legislation he believed should be enacted, and which he said was generally favored in Congress.

It would provide for full restoration of the anti-trust laws, except for the gas, oil and coal industries, elimination of price fixing and a general elimination of section 7-A. The labor code of the recovery act. That might be handled in separate legislation such as the Wagner bill.

Most of the existing codes would be dropped, and in their place voluntary codes for all businesses primarily of a local intrastate nature would be provided for to govern hours of labor, wages and child labor.

Should Retain Big Codes. The only compulsory codes would be for the big basic industries of a definite interstate character.

George said he felt the functions of NRA should be transferred to the federal trade commission and the present recovery agency abolished.

Recalled today, Birch denied that Mrs. Davidson and her husband had quarreled frequently in the period

100,000 Gallons of 'Corn' Consumed Here Each Month

Atlanta, the capital of bone dry Georgia, consumes 100,000 gallons of corn whisky monthly and this state, despite its legal aridity, is probably the wettest of any in the United States, according to S. E. Tuttle, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit of the United States internal revenue department.

The 100,000-gallon estimate is conservative, alcohol tax unit officials admit, but even that amount is sufficient to supply every man, woman and child in the Atlanta district with one quart of "corn" ethanol and those who have to supply the inhabitants of several other Georgia cities with the same amount.

Mr. Tuttle has charge of the war.

During the first two months of 1935, alcohol tax unit agents raided

F. D. R. STATEMENT CAUSES GYRATIONS IN ALL MARKETS

Misinterpretation of Chief Executive's Position on Prices Results in Trading Frenzy.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—A presidential statement that prices are still too low today tossed the markets into a short-lived inflationary frenzy and generated new speculation here on administration monetary plans.

To a half-hundred newspapermen clustered about his paper-piled desk, President Roosevelt said that while prices had risen and debts had been reduced, the movement had not yet gone far enough to justify stabilization at present levels.

A wide general interpretation of the president's words, together with an erroneous published report of what he said (not carried by the Associated Press) sent virtually all markets wild, upward and evoked a quick supplemental statement from the White House.

"It was made specifically clear by the White House," the statement said, "that any inference that has been or may be printed that there is any contemplated stabilization of the dollar is, of course, not true in so far as anything the president said at his press conference this morning is concerned. Nothing the president said bore the slightest intimation of any such intention on his part."

By making no definite commitments.

By making no definite commitments, Mr. Roosevelt is keeping the way clear for stabilization of the dollar and consequently, but to a lesser degree, of prices. The way would be open for him to act suddenly or otherwise, at any time such a move should become necessary.

Not Clear.

What Mr. Roosevelt would consider satisfactory price level has never been specifically clearly stated, most talk has mentioned the 1926 average as standard. Prices now are roughly 79 per cent of that average, having risen to that point from around 60 per cent since March, 1933.

In the sense that the level of the dollar would depend upon the purchasing power of the money with which the debts are discharged, the nation's debts have, consequently, been reduced.

That theory on which this view rests is that if a man borrows a dollar, he can immediately go and buy one bushel of wheat, and repay it when he has discharged the debt two or three times over, assuming of course that other prices are in proportion.

Debt Reduced.

As the price of wheat and other commodities runs upward from that point it would approach the level at which it stood when the dollar

Mill Head Tells Board Code Requirements Equalled or Exceeded.

By RANDOLPH FORT, Associated Press Staff Writer.

LA GRANGE, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Cason Callaway, head of a chain of textile mills operating under national guard protection, told the national textile labor relations board today that the mills were paying equal or more than NRA code wages and that the debts are discharged when the code is paid.

Callaway's reply to the labor board was as follows:

"The first we knew that any of the employees of our plants were dissatisfied with our new schedule of wages and methods of paying premium or bonus was on last Tuesday afternoon when the federal board and I went to our office."

"We had not then and have not yet had a request from any group of employees or union committee to discuss any question with reference to the new wage scales and method of paying premium."

While the property damage was high, there were no fatalities and only two persons were reported hurt, both sustaining minor injuries. Jim Dooly

NEW INJUNCTION HALTS HURT SALE

U. S. Judge Grants Temporary Order Against Building Purchase.

Confirmation of the sale of the Hurt building to Hurt Building, Inc., at foreclosure sale Tuesday, was halted Wednesday by a temporary restraining order issued by United States District Judge Bascom E. Deaver.

Judge Deaver's order, issued upon a petition by three New York bondholders, Mrs. H. R. Freck, Lewis Cohan and Alberto Bondy, second mortgage bondholders, made the matter returnable before Judge Underwood March 14. Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy postponed action on confirmation or rejection of the $2,250,000 bid of the Hurt interests for March 19 when the new injunction was presented to him.

Albert Mayer, attorney for the protestants, obtained the order from Judge Deaver in Macon during the absence from Atlanta of Judge Underwood.

The petitioners contend that the agreement between the New York and Atlanta bondholders committees under the organization plan does not adequately protect the interests of second mortgage bondholders, and asks that bankruptcy proceedings be reinstated in order that their interests may be protected and that the building be recognized as a going concern.

Mayer is attorney for Walter C. Hendrix and Ronald Ransom, receivers for the building, who conducted the auction Tuesday before the courthouse door, said that he will confer this morning with Judge Underwood upon his return to the city.

Dr. Pepper Bottlers, Salesmen in 2 States Hold 3d Annual Sales Convention Here

Officials of the Doctor Pepper Company, of Dallas, Texas, on Wednesday held a one-day sales convention at the Piedmont hotel. Seated, left to right, S. L. Brown, vice president; J. B. O'Hara, president and general manager; D. D. Stephenson, Birmingham branch manager. Standing, W. V. Ballew, sales manager; A. H. Bottlers and salesmen for "Dr. Pepper" from Georgia and southeastern Tennessee, numbering 60, attended a sales convention held Wednesday at the Piedmont hotel. F. L. Cannon, manager of the Atlanta Dr. Pepper Bottling Company, was host to the group at luncheon, served at noon. This was the third annual Dr. Pepper sales convention held in Atlanta.

With the 13th of 20 meetings officials of the Dr. Pepper Company are holding this year with salesmen and bottlers in different sections of the country. The convention proper opened at 11 o'clock.

W. E. Ballew, sales manager, conducted the business part of the meeting with the assistance of D. D. Stephenson, Birmingham branch manager.

The program consisted of a discussion of sales possibilities of Dr. Pepper for 1935, with particular reference to the bottling industry as applied to the bottling industry.

The program was an innovation in Dr. Pepper sales meetings, as it included a two-act playlet and a talking picture which shows a guaranteed tested sales plan and other ideas particularly adaptable to the Dr. Pepper business. Advertising, sales plans and other promotions for 1935, were discussed in detail.

In a recent letter for the proposal, Senator James H. Skelton Sr. of Hartwell, declared in criticizing some members of the general assembly through the delegate representing the particular local government involved.

The second was the Benton-Zelner milk control bill, which opponents said would have all but legislated evaporated milk out of use in Georgia. This measure and the Burdin bill were tabled but though they should be voted off the table there is little possibility of either being considered again during the session.

Death for Kidnappers.

An important measure passed by the house was the Thompson bill, which provides the death penalty for kidnapping for ransom. Representative J. O. Thompson, of Muscogee county, The bill provides that the holding of a kidnap victim for a period of 24 hours or more is prima facie evidence that ransom is desired. Under the terms of the measure a jury convicting a kidnapper may recommend mercy but the death punishment is fixed at life imprisonment.

As amended by the senate the constitutional amendment paving the way for the tax on intangible properties provides that the levy may be made on money, notes, accounts, stocks and bonds, all being classed as intangibles.

The amendment to permit local governments to share in the proceeds of the tax was offered by Senator David Atkinson, of Savannah. Under his proposal, which was agreed to by the sponsors of the measure, the state will get over 20 per cent of the yield from the tax, the 80 per cent balance being divided equally between the cities and the counties.

Help to Governments.

Senator Simmons said that if the amendment is approved by the voters and the tax is levied by the 1937 general assembly the legislature will be doing much to help the way of government.

"The state, the cities and the counties are having great difficulty in making ends meet as things stand," the Rainbridge senator said. "If this tax on the wealth of the state is finally enacted we will be in a position to relieve some of our citizens who are paying too many taxes."

In a recent letter for the proposal, Senator James H. Skelton Sr. of Hartwell, declared in criticizing some mem-

SHOW, EXPOSITION TO ATTRACT MANY

300,000 Expected To At- tend Rogers Fifth An- nual Food Event Here.

More than 300,000 persons are expected to attend the Fifth Annual Rogers Food Show and Exposition during the 10 days it will be in progress at 230 Spring street, according to John W. Gates, show director. The mammoth exposition is scheduled to commence March 14.

The show will occupy all three floors of the building on Spring street. The lobby of the structure will be devoted to a display of prizes to be awarded during the show, while the rest of the building will be utilized by the Ford Motor Company in its display of Ford products and a "Kiddie Review."

The second floor will be a display of Georgia agricultural products, a model Rogers Store, exhibited by various merchants of household furnishings, and appliances, all descriptions, a fine exhibit by ice dealers of Atlanta and the 10-act vaudeville show which will be presented every afternoon and evening.

National food manufacturers from every section of the United States will be over 200 exhibitors and firms will be available for the display of every conceivable type of foodstuffs. The cooking school to be sponsored by the Georgia Power Company, which will be held from March 18 to 22, inclusive, will likewise be on the third floor.

Members of the Atlanta Junior League will act as hostesses each afternoon during the exposition, while Atlanta Woman's Club members will be hostesses during the evening.

The Rogers Stores show last year attracted 240,000 visitors, and it is expected that more than 300,000 will pass through the turnstiles this year because of the many added attractions and the larger space available.

More Rain, Colder Atlanta Forecast

More than half an inch of rain fell in Atlanta yesterday, the last time it has rained, and about 15 minutes before 55 inches of rain fell during the brief period. It was one of the heaviest rains of brief duration ever experienced by Atlanta.

The downpour, starting shortly after 1 o'clock, lasted less than 15 minutes but 55 inches of rain fell during the brief period. It was one of the heaviest rains of brief duration ever experienced by Atlanta.

Rain remained on the program to continue today. The mercury will be to drop in late afternoon and much colder weather will be on the bill-tomorrow. The temperature extremes Wednesday were 68 and 65 degrees.

W. R. C. SMITH TO OFFER DEVELOPMENT PLANS

A widespread plan for advertising the five southeastern states will be proposed at the meeting of the Southeastern development board to be held in Jacksonville Friday and Saturday, W. R. C. Smith, of Atlanta, said Wednesday.

The plan will embrace the appropriation of large sums by the legislatures of the five states to be matched dollar for dollar by the industries in the various states. The funds will be combined, according to the plan, into one fund which will be used to stimulate the southeast. More than $50,000 has been spent on the southeast in advertising in the last six years, but only "pop gun" methods have been used, while the new plan is designed to bring results, according to Mr. Smith.

YOUNG JUDAEA LEADER SPEAKS FRIDAY NIGHT

Edward R. Vajda, president of the Southern Young Judaea Association, will be principal speaker at the next Friday night at the Shearith Israel Congregation. The services will be a feature of the celebration of "Yom Judaea" month in Atlanta.

Dave Alterman will lead the service and David Stein will voice the welcome. H. Sobelson is in charge of the singing program. Roselle Club members will act as hostesses for the S. L. J. and will serve refreshments in the vestry room after the services.

STAMP CLUB TO MEET AT HOME OF FRANCIS

The Atlanta Stamp Society will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the home of A. P. Francis, 1037 Gordon street, S. W., and all members and others interested are invited to attend. The society has been meeting every Thursday night in the offices of the secretary, Karl Path, who was burned out in the Gould building fire last Saturday.

Mrs. Francis has specialized on United States for years and has much to show for his interest and time. An unusually interesting meeting is planned for tonight.

Man Who Ignores Accident Peril Is Unfair to Wife and Children

It has been said that "lightning never strikes twice in the same place." That may be true, but the man who smugly ignores the chance of being struck the first time is a fool and it isn't wise to even count on the fact that it's impossible to become the victim of a single accident.

The thoughtful man, with the welfare, comfort, and security of his wife and children at heart, safeguards himself and them against the want that follows tragedy. Any thoughtful man or woman, for that matter, cannot fail to be impressed with the peril of the ever-mounting accident wave that is taking such terrible toll of life.

The insurance offered through The Atlanta Constitution provides for the payment of sums ranging from $10.00 to $1,000 in case of death or pedestrian deaths resulting from certain specified accidents, heavy sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for total disability resulting from accidents set forth in the policy, which is at the rate of $43.33 per month.

In sending application for insurance, the applicant must state name in full, date

House May Consider 'Pink Slips' Saturday

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—With the March 15 deadline drawing close, the house may force its Saturday session to act on the proposal for a bill to ban the "pink slip" clause of the income tax law.

The ways and means committee approved a bill today by Chairman Doughton to kill off the 20-word publicity provision stuck into the 1934 revenue act upon senate prompting.

Speaker Byrnes said there "probably" would be a Saturday session.

The senate, which last year voted for even stronger publicity requirements, has shown recently indications of standing firm for the "pink slip."

Give age and occupations, and if beneficiary is desired the full Christian name of beneficiary must be given and relationship of same to the insured.

AID FOR TUNG OIL INDUSTRY

Representatives in congress from the gulf states should unitedly support the proposed legislation to extend federal aid in the development of the tung oil industry in this section.

The legislation is being discussed because of the refusal of the farm credit administration to make loans for the planting of new trees on the untenable ground that the production of tung oil in the states bordering the gulf is still in the experimental stage.

In view of the indisputable facts bearing on the development of this new industry in the south, the position of the farm credit administration is difficult to understand, especially in view of the fact that it tends to take thousands of acres of land out of cotton production.

Tung oil is an indispensable ingredient of quick-drying paints and varnishes. Until recent years the world demand has been supplied exclusively by China, the native habitat of the tung tree. For more than a quarter of a century Great Britain experimented in her various dominions to find a location suitable to the growth of the trees, finally giving up the effort as a failure. The United States during much of this period conducted wide experiments, both in the south and in California.

As the result of these world-wide experiments it has been definitely and conclusively demonstrated that nowhere except in China and a strip of land approximately 100 miles in width bordering the gulf coast does there exist the combination of soil and atmosphere necessary to the successful growing of tung trees.

Already there are 60,000 acres planted in the south, mostly in Mississippi, Florida and Louisiana, and many of the groves are now producing oil in large quantities.

In marked degree, Justice Holmes
typified the finest ideals of American leadership, and his public service has been not only invaluable
during his lifetime, but its effects upon the welfare of the nation will be lasting.

A Phoenix thinker suggests removing tariff protection from infant industries, as, so many are now eligible under the Townsend old age
plan.

Representative O'Malley, of Wisconsin, wants the rich sent to the trenches first in another war. The American market is now taking 100,000,000 pounds
of oil annually.

With these definitely established facts, every aid should be extended by the federal government in the development of the new industry.

THE HIGHWAYS AND RELIEF.

Taking time by the forelock, the American Association of State Highway Officials has prepared a summary of the highway construction possible to get under way during 1935 should congress enact the president's $4,000,000,000 work-relief bill, and should upwards of half of the appropriation be made available for highway projects.

Such use of the work-relief money would, in the opinion of the association, bring "benefits to motorists and the country in general
almost beyond comprehension."

The major benefits are listed as increased safety to motorists and pedestrians, savings in motor vehicles,
driving costs, the relief of congestion and widespread employment
and distribution of wages.

State highway departments, it is reported, can immediately begin work on projects costing not less than $700,000,000 and other work that can be launched during the year would easily total a billion
more.

Among the projects listed are 9,727 safety structures, 4,058 rail-highway grade separations, 5,326
replacements of weak and narrow bridges and 343 highway grade separations. In addition to these safety and modernization projects, work can be started at once on the construction of 10,732 highway projects and 1,739 jobs of construction and reconstruction of trunk roads through cities and city by-passes.

The association argues that "public road construction has created employment faster than any other type of work, and for this reason highways should be given a major consideration in the impending public works program."

There is much to justify the position taken by the association.
Highway construction benefits not only skilled and unskilled labor on the projects being built, but numerous industries, headed by steel, concrete and wood, are direct beneficiaries. Employment in these industries would be directly benefited by the adoption of a nation-wide highway construction program.

From the standpoint of the benefit to the public, there is probably no other type of project that would be of more direct and universal service to as large a per cent of the people.

The work-relief bill explicitly contemplates highway construction as one of the major projects to be undertaken, and it is certain that a large part of the $4,000,000,- 000 fund, if it is enacted, will be used for this purpose.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES

Few Americans have served their country over so long period and with such distinction as Oliver Wendell Holmes, former member of the supreme court who died in Washington Wednesday.

As a youth of 20 he entered the federal army in 1861 immediately upon his graduation from Harvard University. Seventy-one years later he ended his public service when, in 1932, he resigned from the supreme court.

Emerging from the army in 1864 with the rank of lieutenant colonel and after having been wounded in the battles of Ball's Bluff, Antietam and Fredericksburg, he at once entered Harvard law school, being admitted to the bar in 1866. He successively became editor of the America Law Review, professor at the Harvard law school and Justice of the Massachusetts supreme court, being named chief Justice in 1899.

He early evidenced during his service on the Massachusetts bench the beliefs that won for him in later years the designation the "great liberal" of the federal supreme court. He was among the first jurists of America to give decisions recognizing the right of workers to "support their interests by arguments, persuasion and the bestowal of refusal of those advantages which they otherwise lawfully control, so long as they do no violence or threaten no violence."

Added to his command of the law was a profound philosophy that caused him to be referred to, on more than one occasion, as "the wisest man now speaking and writing the English language."

Probably no man in public life was more even-tempered and throughout life he evidenced a rare and delightful sense of humor.

In marked degree, Justice Holmes
typified the finest ideals of American leadership, and his public service
has been not only invaluable
during his lifetime, but its effects
upon the welfare of the nation will be lasting.

A Phoenix thinker suggests removing tariff protection from infant
industries, as, so many are now
eligible under the Townsend old age
plan.

Representative O'Malley, of Wisconsin, wants the rich sent to the trenches first in another war. The American market is now taking 100,000,000 pounds
of oil annually.

With these definitely established
facts, every aid should be extended
by the federal government in the development of the new industry.

THE HIGHWAYS AND RELIEF.

Taking time by the forelock, the American Association of State Highway Officials has prepared a summary of the highway construction
possible to get under way during 1935 should congress enact the president's $4,000,000,000 work-relief
bill, and should upwards of half
of the appropriation be made available for highway projects.

Such use of the work-relief
money would, in the opinion of the association, bring "benefits to motorists and the country in general
almost beyond comprehension."

The major benefits are listed as increased safety to motorists and pedestrians, savings in motor vehicles,
driving costs, the relief of congestion and widespread employment
and distribution of wages.

State highway departments, it is reported, can immediately begin
work on projects costing not less than $700,000,000 and other work
that can be launched during the year would easily total a billion
more.

Among the projects listed are 9,727 safety structures, 4,058 rail-highway grade separations, 5,326
replacements of weak and narrow
bridges and 343 highway grade
separations. In addition to these

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

A Mohammedan Sermon.

The world is not getting better. Mankind is slowly moving toward a period which will be known in years to come as the night of history. This generation and the preceding ones have worshipped the god of greed. They have forgotten the great God of the universe whose desire is that men shall live together as brothers and who made it possible for men to live as brothers indeed by providing bread and fruit and honey and olives and milk in abundance. God supplied this abundance so that man should have leisure time to meditate and to make life happier and more beautiful for all. Man has not done this. Man has been bewitched by a passion for possession. Always more and more does the modern man want. Never is he satisfied. And yet the millions have not enough to feed their children and clothe them. Woe to this generation!

What is all this? A sermon by a socialist dominie on the Clyde? An extract from a speech by a Hyde Park soapboxer? A few lines from a book by a social reformer? Nothing of the sort! This is part of a homily pronounced by an Islamic ulama in the heart of Africa in the great red-walled mosque of Timbuktu last Friday when I was amongst the congregation. Youssef, my bodyguard and interpreter, accompanied me and gave me a resume of the sermon after the service, which, let me say, did not last more than 15 minutes, (the sermon that is) which is quite enough in my estimation.

Here is another remark by that exhorter: "Not the tyrant makes the slaves. O Muslim, (believers) but the slaves make the tyrant!"

Stirrings in Islam.

How do you like that? Yes, I always felt that Islam could not have made mankind by its own specialism. Through the mass of superstitions and primitive errors in the Koran runs a thin thread of social justice and more than once through the tatters of oriental rhetoric peeps out the sense of brotherhood of man. The mass of the Moslems does not read the Koran. It is interpreted for them and although many of the interpreters or teachers, the so-called ulamas, follow the line of least resistance, which in oriental countries and magic, there are modernists, too, among the Moslems, and in Timbuktu I heard the first of them.

In Timbuktu.

Who would have dreamt it? This is the most inaccessable place on earth, indeed its inaccessibility is proverbial. What would you expect here in the middle of Africa, separated from the deserts of desert, which is a barrier more to man than to an ocean? I am told what I expected. Color stands eight inches tall and a man's head is half than half civilized human beings. All this is here, too. But that sermon, that was certainly something unshopped for. My respect for Islam went up a hundredfold. It is interpreted for them and although many of the interpreters or teachers, the so-called ulamas, follow the line of least resistance, which in oriental countries and magic, there are modernists, too, among the Moslems, and in Timbuktu I heard the first of them.

It is a remarkable sermon, this, of the Moslem. It is the teaching of the Koran that the Moslem wants to split up, because even he proposes to leave the wealthy $10,000,000 boys something.

So take $15,000,000,000 as a fair round number of what he might split up. It exists in the form of stocks and bonds largely. These could not be divided as you split up a piece of pie. The government would have to take it and operate the factories, mines or other industries it represents. The income from this certainly could average no more than 4 to 6 per cent, if that much. If it is 6 per cent, the amount of money which Huey wants to split up, because even he proposes to leave the wealthy $10,000,000 boys something.

This is about one-fifth of the wealth President Roosevelt proposes to split up next year through relief expenditures.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

ANSWER WASHINGTON, March 6.—The radio job which General Johnson performed on Huey Long and Father Coughlin was dressed up like a one-man affair. Actually there were more hands on it than will ever be disclosed.

The general tried to solve the New Deal from any connection with it. Yet guests at the dinner noticed significantly that President Roosevelt's good friend and adviser, Professor Raymond Moley, sat near by. Mr. Moley not only sat, but he made a few remarks before Johnson spoke, and these remarks were in praise of General Johnson.

The truth of the matter is that the New Dealers have been staying up nights lately praying for someone who could answer the Long-Coughlin duel in its own raucous tone. Statesmen around Washington have been too prissy or too sensible to get involved in a melee with either. They realize it means unlimited and unrestrained vituperation and they concede at least Long's supremacy in that art.

The Johnson speech was an answer to these prayers, and it did not exactly come from above.

STRATEGY There can be no question about Johnson accurately reflecting the unspoken attitude of the New Dealers from the lowest to the highest. He did not exaggerate their sentiments a bit. This will be evident shortly when other hidden guns are unmasked. Johnson only fired the opening shot. The last one may not be heard until the presidential campaign next year is over.

While agreeing with Johnson's conclusions, some of the men near the top here did not believe he should have made the speech. Not for the reasons he cited, but because the general himself is vulnerable. They thought his business and military background would prevent his remarks from striking home with the Long and Coughlin followers whom they want to reach.

For that reason, it is felt the effectiveness of Johnson's remarks may not be as strategically effective out in the country as they were in Washington.

HELP Others who were on the inside of Johnson's plans were members or officials of Father Coughlin's church. One member is supposed to have been Al Smith. Johnson himself implied as much. It is a political axiom in Washington that Father Coughlin numbers very few Catholic church officials among his national followers.

WEALTH-SHARING One reason Huey is so hard to answer is that he is wisely vague about his "share-the-wealth" plan and the figures which should go with it.

The only specific approach he has offered is to seize all personal wealth of more than $10,000,000.

The precise wealth of the country is not known. Latest figures places it between $250,000,000,000 and $300,000,000,000. Imperial economists (not New Dealers) calculate roughly that the share of this wealth held by people with blocks of more than $10,000,000 each is about $25,000,000,000. But even this is not the proper pool which Huey wants to split up, because even he proposes to leave the wealthy $10,000,000 boys something.

So take $15,000,000,000 as a fair round number of what he might split up. It exists in the form of stocks and bonds largely. These could not be divided as you split up a piece of pie. The government would have to take it and operate the factories, mines or other industries it represents. The income from this certainly could average no more than 4 to 6 per cent, if that much. If it is 6 per cent, the amount of money which Huey wants to split up, because even he proposes to leave the wealthy $10,000,000 boys something.

This is about one-fifth of the wealth President Roosevelt proposes to split up next year through relief expenditures.

$5,000 FAMILIES Fair economists who have tried to figure out how Huey is going to get his promised $5,000 for every family are equally puzzled. There are 30,000,000 families in this country. If you strain your imagination to the point where you can conceive that Huey can seize $25,000,000,000 of wealth and split it up, the amount would be only about $800 per family. But Huey does not propose to go that far.

If you want a big stretch and consider the possibility that he might take all the wealth in the country and split it up, a fair estimate is that the split would amount to $8,333 per family. That would really do something, but it would require more magic than any of these political magicians have displayed so far.

The very minute that the government seized it, most of it would be lost to the market value it has today, or any market value. A confiscatory tax levy would create a national panic which would utterly destroy existing values.

What you would get out of that would not be $8,333 per family, but just what the Russians got. The graft possibilities would surpass those even in the state of Louisiana today.

PROMISES Serious students of share-the-wealth possibilities say Long's vague generalities contain nothing new. They are substantially the same as campaign promises advanced by Hitler in Germany, Mussolini in Italy and MacDonald in Great Britain. Not one of these three has made good on his promise. The communists are the only ones who accomplished a share-the-wealth program, and the main reason they succeeded was that they had no wealth to share, only poverty.

RAINFALL IS HEAVY AT GEORGIA POINTS

Hail Seen at Columbus as Rain Is Welcomed by Farmers.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 6.—(P)—Rainstorms struck scattered sections of Georgia today, now unusually heavy rains yesterday and last night. A stiff wind blew down a number of trees, power lines and telephone poles here and for about 10 minutes this vicinity was pelted with hailstones.

High winds drove a rainstorm into the Atlanta section early in the afternoon, drenching scores of legislators and capitol employees on their way to or from lunch rooms. The storm swept in across the Chattahoochee river from Alabama.

West Point, not far from here, reported a rainfall of 3.60 inches in the 24-hour period ending at 7 a. m. today, and scattered rains fell in various sections of the state during the day.

Other rainfall reports for the 24-hour period included: Atlanta, 2.01; Columbus, 3.1; LaGrange, 2.92; Athens, .85; Albany, .47; Gainesville, 1.20; Norcross, 1.67; Macon, 1.22; Augusta, .46; Americus, 1.18;蒙特哥, 1.20; Newnan, 1.83; Woodbury, 3.12; Hogansville, 2.65; Thomasville, none.

Light rains were reported from parts of southern Georgia.

Generally, the rains were welcomed as a good time to grow plants, or to put a good season in the ground for spring planting. Athens said crops there were in good condition and that the rains were welcomed.

The crop situation in this area is good, although farmers have been delayed slightly by cold and bad weather.

Allots reported only a slight rainfall today. Farmers there are planting watermelons and looking after tobacco beds preparatory to transplanting them into the fields later this month. Many spring gardens are being planted there.

Albany, south of Georgia, said it received .47 of an inch, and that crops were in fair condition. "We could use more rain," Albany reported.

A mild storm was reported at Macon, west of Atlanta, where a filling station suffered some damage, and at Ainsell, farther east, wind damaged some roofs and a heavy rainfall was reported.

STUDENTS AT SHORTER ARE AWARDED HONORS

ROME, Ga., March 6.—Eight students were awarded "highest honors" at the fifth annual honor's day program at Shorter College. President Alexander Guerry, of the University of Chattanooga, was the principal speaker.

Honor awards follow: Highest honors, Evelyn Perry, junior, Rome; Constance Gatewood, Columbus; Dorothy May, Decatur; and Muriel Turner, Rome. Honorable: Anna Martin, Columbus; Margaret Mullins, Dothan, Ala., and Thelma Quilliam, Oklahoma City, freshman.

Strike Ended.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 6.—(P)—Chattanooga's last strike was settled today when terms were reached between strikers of the H. L. Judd Company and officials of the company.

LINCOLNTON HIT BY HEAVY STORM

was reported injured when his home collapsed, while R. N. Autry was struck on the head by a flying missile while standing on the street.

Residents were warned of the approaching storm, they said, by a roaring noise from the west and a yellowish tint in the clouds. The town was accompanied by rain and hail.

Several buildings in the business section were unroofed, while part of the walls crumbled in the office building owned by C. E. Keter, which houses the postoffice and the federal relief offices.

Part of the roof was blown from the courthouse and a water tower adjacent to the courthouse was levelled.

Plate glass windows were shattered in many buildings, while at least three residences were unroofed.

Residents of the town scurried from homes and buildings to escape the fury of the storm when they saw other buildings being damaged by the wind.

ANDREWS WELCOMED BY LANGLEY REVIEW

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(P)—The condition of Bernard Freeman, university student, and Pilot Ben T. Eppes, of Athens, victim of a plane crash here last Sunday, was reported as "about the same" by local hospital officials today.

Eppes had a bad day Tuesday and doctors feared further complications, but he was said to be slightly better today. He has not regained full consciousness since the accident.

Little change has been noted in the condition of Freeman. His badly crushed leg has not been amputated.

NEWSMEN IN FLORIDA RELEASED ON BOND

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—(P)—Walter J. Aepli, publisher, and Paul G. Aepli, editor of the Miami Beach Tribune, today furnished $250 cash bonds and were released from custody of the sheriff in criminal libel proceedings brought by Mayor E. G. Sewell.

The state supreme court granted the newspapermen writs of habeas corpus pending further court action on the mayor's charges.

Georgia News Told in Brief

Legion To Meet.

JACKSON, Ga., March 6.—A meeting of American Legion posts in the fourth congressional district, will be held Sunday at Jackson. The meeting is scheduled for 2 o'clock and will be held in the courthouse. Irby Cook, of Manchester, district commander, will preside.

Griffin Housing Drive.

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 6.—A. O. Blaske, field man for the federal housing commission, is in Griffin to start a better housing campaign. A local committee is being formed to conduct the campaign. The Chamber of Commerce is co-operating.

Holds Anniversary.

CLYDE, Ga., March 6.—(P)—Dr. T. W. Shealy, pastor of Laurel Hill Lutheran church and of Wingard Lutheran church here, this week celebrated his 35th anniversary of service to the two churches.

Griffin Church Steeple, Struck by Bolt, Rebuilt

GRIMES, Ga., March 6.—Work on rebuilding the steeple of the First Baptist church, which was destroyed recently when struck by lightning, has begun. The church steeple is the highest spiral in Griffin and can be seen for miles around.

LEFTY GROVE APPEARS OKAY AFTER WARM-UP

Red Sox Ace Cuts Loose and Schacht Is Joyful.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 6.—(UP)—Bob "Lefty" Grove, the Boston Red Sox's costly twirler, cut loose with his pair-side arm today and made Al Schacht, new comedian-coach, jump with joy.

According to Schacht, Grove showed more zip during today's warmup than he did at any time last season.

"That proves it," said Schacht to Manager Joe Cronin. "His arm must be right. If it wasn't those pitches he threw would have torn it off."

Never a particularly sociable person, especially since his arm started bothering him, Grove is now the life of the Red Sox camp.

DAFFEY IN SHAPE.

BRAZENTON, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Jerome Herman ("Dizzy") Dean, the great man of baseball, was indisposed today. But other big news from the St. Louis Cardinal camp concerned Brother Paul's statement that he was in fine condition.

Dizzy complained of a cold and a grouch so Manager Frankie Frisch consented for him to absent himself from part of today's practice. Paul, the other of the two star Red Bird pitchers, announced he was in better condition than at the close of the 1934 season.

RED CHANGES.

TAMPA, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—A prediction of radical changes in the lineup of the Cincinnati Reds on opening day, as compared with a year ago, came today from General Manager Larry MacPhail.

"I'll guess," MacPhail said, "that on opening day there will be five players on the Reds who were not with the club on opening day in 1934, and that four of them will be on the National League roster at the close of the season."

He mentioned no names.

RAJAH BEANED.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Manager Rogers Hornsby convinced his St. Louis Browns today he can still "take it," despite his 32 years.

Attempting to run out a bunt, the Rajah was struck on the temple by a hard-thrown ball, but the beaure apparently did not faze him. Double infiel practice continued at the Brownie camp today, and the pitching staff tried curves for the first time, preparatory to Monday's exhibition with the Giants.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 6.—The Phillips squad today started its regular practice grind with workouts morning and afternoon under the watchful eye of Manager Jimmy Wilson.

Dr. Langhorne Wistar Fink, former Langhorne football player, who is vacationing in Florida from his dental practice at Hamburg, Pa., remarked that the Phils show more promise than any of the other clubs with quarters in this area. He has seen all except the Braves.

DRILL IN RAIN.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—(AP)—It takes more than a drizzling rain to keep the Cleveland Indians off the diamond this year.

Although it did prevent them from turning on full steam in their workouts today, Manager Walter Johnson and Infelder, Tracy, Beale and Hugie, through a half-hour drill, All except Hughes, whipped the ball around with midseason speed. Hughes has been ordered to take care of the official records.

A'S BEST.

FOOT MYERS, Fla., March 6.—The A's best today, rest from the 12 days of the winter, rest from the 12 days and spent their time in selecting the rookies most likely to make good.

The honors were heaped on Captain Bill Conroy Jr., who celebrated his 20th birthday anniversary last month, and Shortstop Lamar Newson, formerly of the Texas league. Both boys were said by observers to have shown decided promise in practice.

Down the Alley

Blue Ribbon Beer won three games from the Alliance Printing Company, in the Businessmen's Duckpin league. Wednesday and fattened their lead to the extent of a six-game margin over their nearest contender.

The Blue Ribbon, who got away to the beginning of the second half found them with a high-spirited team, well-balanced in play, that is capable of going places in any league. Dewey Bowen, G. C. Terry, Stuart Murray, Alan Liebler, Charlie Ross, F. Adams, G. G. Ramsey constitute the roster of the team.

Five more bowlers entered their names Wednesday evening for the "left-hand bowlers duckpin tournament" that will be bowled at Bick's Bowling Center this Saturday afternoon and evening.

Tom O'Neil and Russell West, of the Capital City Duckpin league, Ray Slade, Everett Milligan and F. M. Everett, of the Gulf Refining Company Duckpin league, were the new entries received last night. These five additional entries bring the grand total received up to 22 and several more are expected Thursday and Friday. The five games in this event may be bowled on Saturday 2 or 8 p.m. this Saturday. You can pay only the cost of the games and have a chance to win the gold medal.

A. J. Sossong, heavy-hitting anchorman of the Dale Shirt Company, walloped the little wood for 409 runs and helped his team to three games in the Businessmen's Duckpin league—Greebham's Soda Fountain being the victims.

The close race that prevails in the Junior Chamber of Commerce Duckpin league will attract many spectators as these eight teams, most of whom are closely matched near the top, vie with one another for a chance at the second-half title.

Forest Fowler Insurance vs. Parks Printing Company; National Life & Accident Insurance vs. Norris Candy Company; Haas-Howell & Dodd vs. Horne Desk & Fixture Company, are the assignments for this evening. Alan Littlefield, chairman of the local duckpin committee, believes that bowling in his organization is a 50 per cent increase over last year in interest, attendance and enthusiasm.

BARONS STRONG, SERVE NOTICE ON RIVAL CLUBS

West Predicts First Division Club for Birmingham This Season.

By T. M. Davenport.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 6.—(AP)—Notice has been served by Billy West, president of the Birmingham baseball club, that there will be a vacancy in the second division of the Southern association this year—the one occupied by the Barons last season.

"I think we are going to have a pretty good club and get back in the first division," President West said today in discussing the outlook. "We still need a pitcher, a catcher and a good right-handed hitter for the outfield, but we have deals pending and we expect some of them to come through."

And Clyde Milam, when he comes in to greet his first arrivals next week, is going to find a lot of new faces looking out for Barons uniforms, for the Barons owners have been quietly trading here and there to get new blood into the club.

PROMISING ROOKIES.

Milam is going to have the most talented group of rookies he has ever had to work with in Birmingham, and in addition some veterans to fill key positions.

"The big problem is to confine the 'old deerfoot' filling third base, and getting a catcher who can handle pitchers and lash out hits to bring in runners."

Both catchers are gone. Bill Raymond to Washington, and Aubrey Epp, who was converted from an outfielder late in the season, to Pittsburgh. There are some rookies, but none has had enough experience to carry the burden.

Clarence (Bud) Clancy, who went to the Cardinals from Little Rock, is looking for a position with the Barons.

Third base is a question. Milam must solve it, for there are strings out that the man needed for the training season gets under way March 16.

In the outfield, Harold Willett, who was moved from the infield last year and immediately began hitting, remains. Willett may get Art Weis post in left.

Frank Egan, a Class B man, with Little Rock last year, looks like a safe bet for right field, and Leslie Horn, a hard-hitting rookie from Greenville, might be the answer for centerfield.

Julian Tubb and Dick Stewart, both of whom went good with Greenville, in the East Dixie league last year, have been called for Milam to look at as possible pitchers.

There are several promising rookies under contract, but whether they will have enough experience to plug the gaps remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, Captain Billy West has outfielders for trades and outright purchases to carry out his prediction of a vacant berth in the second division.

Abe White Off To Join Barons.

Abe White, Bradenton (Ga.) boy who made good on the Birmingham pitching staff, will leave the city today to join Manager Clyde Milam's squad in spring training.

White, who got his start on the Atlanta sandlot, last year became a star at Lindale, in the Georgia-Alabama league, where he set a winning streak of 15 straight, is a left-hander and main relief man of the Barons' staff. He led the league in earned runs year before last.

The Barons will train at home.

GOOD ATHLETIC HISTORY.

This is the home of Dick Hartley, who as a player at the University of Georgia, was the first southern player to score on Yale.

Good basketball teams have been produced here for years, one of them going to the national tournament at Chicago a few years ago and winning a couple of games there.

From the columns of the Fort Valley Leader-Tribune I find that the present team is going along in a winning streak. It is called the Green Wave, the same name as the Tulane football team enjoys. Charles Rogers is the coach.

The town also is proud of the colored school here, the Fort Valley Normal and Industrial school, which won a football championship last fall.

Basketball is the big sport, with the girls and boys at all the schools playing on teams.

A FIRE IN FORT VALLEY.

In the larger cities a fire, unless one's home is ablaze, remains more or less unimportant. The sound of the fire engine fails to excite.

But a fire in Fort Valley is something else. Probably your correspondent will not be permitted here again. There was a near tornado and hailstorm in the early afternoon. In the late afternoon there was a fire.

When a fire alarm is sounded in Fort Valley it is an event.

In the first place, there is a general signal to clear the streets. It is in the form of a giant whistle which works on a yodel system. If all the yodelers in the Swiss Alps were yodeling at once they would not be heard from this whistle going. It is a great gurgling roar which reaches a high C note and descends to one which is lower than that reached by the bass when he sings the last line in the ballad "Asleep in the Deep."

And then comes the fire engine with its siren going. A fire alarm here is exciting. The company is an efficient one. They extinguished this fire almost immediately.

THE THOMAS LIBRARY.

None of the cities in Georgia the size of Fort Valley has a superior public library. The late Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Thomas, well known in Atlanta and splendid citizens of this city, left their large private library to the children of Fort Valley.

In 1915 there were only a few hundred volumes to begin with. Since that time the ladies' auxiliaries of Fort Valley have kept it going, aided by a small annual sum from the city.

There are now more than 5,000 volumes in the library. The number of people drawing books runs more than a thousand per month.

A most efficient librarian, Miss Gena Riley, is in charge.

As a result the school children of Fort Valley and the people of this city and the surrounding territory have a splendid reference room and books to read.

Georgia Teams Idle Because of Rain

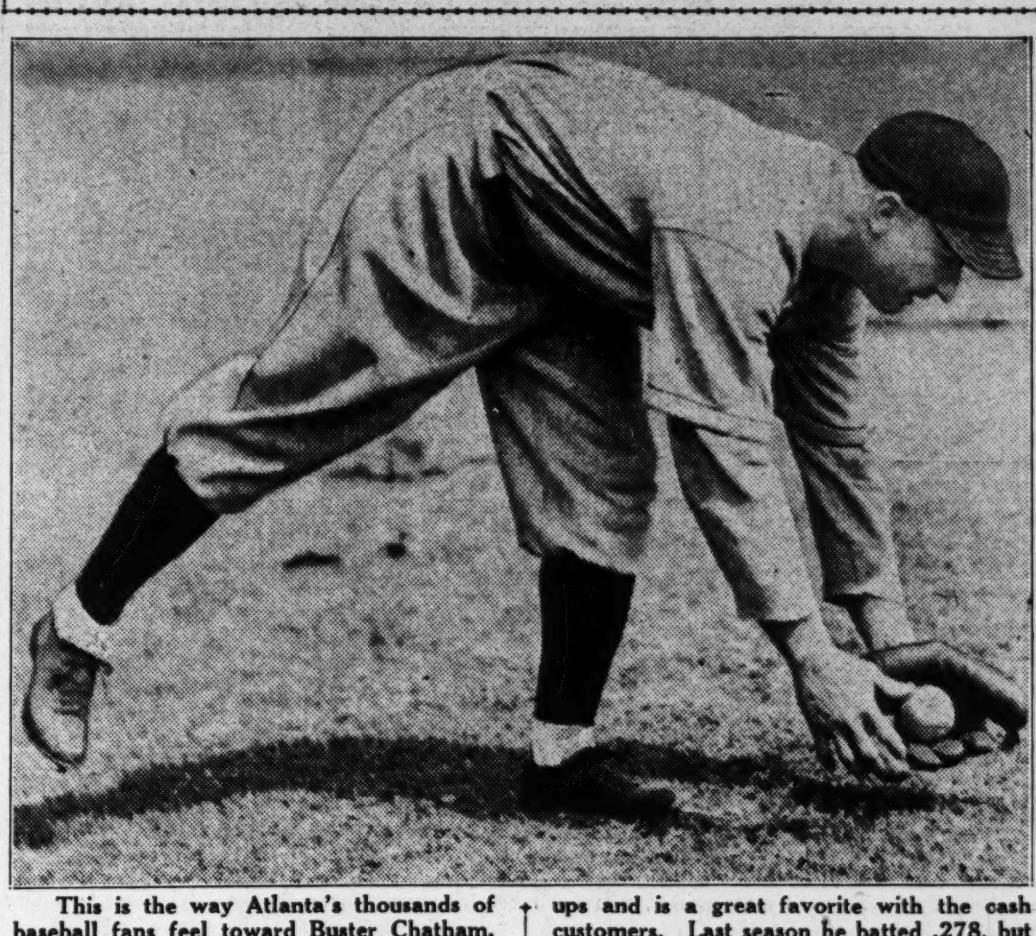

ATHENS, Ga., March 6.—(UP)—Rain today kept both the Georgia football and baseball teams from practicing.

Coach Harry Melton, who had planned a long scrimmage for his spring footballers, was forced to abandon the plan due to the heavy rain. Georgia will end the spring football practice Friday afternoon with a practice game between "Georgia" and "Georgia Tech."

The baseballers, who were called out Monday by Coach Vernon ("Cliff") Smith, have been kept off the diamond for two days on account of rain.

Barons Strong, Serve Notice on Rival Clubs

Welcome 'Home,' Buster

This is the way Atlanta's thousands of baseball fans feel toward Buster Chatham, hustling shortstop and captain of the Crackers and a veteran of three seasons on the infield. Little Buster is the only man on the club who has survived three major shake-ups and is a great favorite with the cash customers. Last season he batted .278, but hopes to hike his average back to (or above) the .295 he hit for the club in 1933. As a fielder, he has few equals. And as a crowd pleaser? None. Staff photo.

EIGHT SEEDED IN INDOOR PLAY

By Bob Cavagnaro.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—For the first time in five years the men's national indoor tennis championships will be purely domestic without even the irrepressible Jean Borotra, of France, to give another shot at the title which he has won four times in the past.

While United States Lawn Tennis Association officials seeded eight players today for the thirty-sixth annual tournament which starts Saturday in the seventh regiment armory, they lamented the absence of one from Borotra.

Without Borotra, or some other four-star player, or some other popular, the tournament lacks much of its attractiveness both for spectators and American players," said one official.

WOULD DRAW STARS.

"I think we are going to have a pretty good club and get back in the first division," President West said today in discussing the outlook.

"Without Borotra, or some other four-star player, or some other popular, the tournament lacks much of its attractiveness both for spectators and American players," said one official.

TRAINING AT MOBILE.

The Crackers trained at Mobile, that is, the Senators were their players in several exhibitions down there and later in Atlanta.

Griffith, the Old Fox, remembered the big fellow in Atlanta uniform who knocked his infielders down with line drives and ran his outfielders ragged. And last winter, when the Crackers were in the Illinois, he was for Freddie Knotho, the third baseman who later refused to report and Harry Taylor, the first baseman, the Old Fox decided to keep an eye on him.

GOOD BREAK.

All that Sington did at Albany was to hit about .350 for most of the season and belt out a flock of home runs, the result being that no one was surprised when Griffith brought him up to Washington in late summer, along with another young outfielder named Al Powell.

Washington maintains a working agreement with the Albany club and Griffith picked up both his injury and his division while he was in the Illinois for Freddie Knotho, the third baseman who later refused to report and Harry Taylor, the first baseman, the Old Fox decided to keep an eye on him.

GOING BACK.

At any rate, Freddie Sington is going with the Senators and hopes to play somewhere in the outfield, although he has plenty of competition from his old teammate at Albany, Powell, not to mention the veterans like Johnny Stone, Schulte, etc.

"All I want is a chance and I believe that Mr. Griffith and Buck Harris will give me one," the polite and polished Sington said before leaving.

In case he is not kept, he may come back to Albany or to Chicago, or St. Louis, or he may go to the ball club in the Bronx.

Griffith's return is a good omen for the ball club in the Bronx.

"I believe he will be a good player," said one official.

Hagen, Sarazen and Little Sought for Metropolitan Open

EFFORTS MADE TO BRING STARS HERE FOR MEET

Bobby Jones Aids in Plans To Have Great Field Entered.

By Jimmy Jones.

Three of the magic names of golf, namely those of Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Lawson Little, were discussed as possible entrants in the $2,000 Atlanta Metropolitan tournaments, planned for April 12 and lasting through April 14, at a meeting of the advisory committee at the Capital City Club yesterday.

Efforts to land Little, the British and American amateur champion, already have been opened by Atlanta's own Bobby Jones in a letter to the stars' wives, a newspaper announcement. Jones has not heard from Little, who, it seems, is a little slow with his correspondence, but in case he defends his title overseas, he may decide to come here for a little "tuning up."

Meanwhile, the committee is going to open immediate negotiations with Hagen and Sarazen and try to persuade one or both to compete here following the Masters' tournament, at Augusta, which precedes the Atlanta open by a week.

EXPECTED TO ENTER.

Since neither of these two famous pros will have to cut short their winter campaigning to return to clubs, as is the case with some of the other pros, they may be willing to show here.

In any event, the Atlanta open committee is going to leave no stone unturned to add as many celebrities as possible to the already growing list.

Members of the committee plan to contact personally the pros participating in the Charleston open, March 21 to 23, the Miami open, March 26-28, at Pines, and March 27, 28, 29, and the Augusta open, April 4, 5, 6, and 7. A vigorous campaign also will be waged in adding more luster and numbers to the amateur list.

Excellent progress to date, as compared to last year, was reported at the committee meeting, over which President G. Jackson, of the My-cies, presided, aided by Secretary George Yancey.

Well-known golfers whose presence already is assured are: Denny Shute, Wiffy Cox, Abe Espinosa, Harry Revolta, Ralph Stonehouse and Harry Cooley.

A FINE FIELD.

If either Hagen or Sarazen, or Little, on a long chance are inveigled into coming here, along with other competitors from the Augusta tournament, the field should be even more attractive than that of last year.

Bob Harlow, the P. G. A. manager, and Dan Doherty, of the Junior Chamber committee, are in Florida, contacting some of the noted pros camping down there.

George Sargent, Howard Beckett and Harry Stephens, Atlanta pros, attended yesterday's meeting and pledged their co-operation in helping with the tournament and local entry lists.

The tournament's revival last year met with remarkable success, considering that three days of the worst sort of weather attended it. This year the committee is much farther along with its preparations, prize and entry list, etc., and prospects are excellent for a successful re-staging of the event, which K. Laflon, the Denver pro, won last year, with Tom Wright, of Knoxville, pacing the amateurs.

Committees appointed include policing, entry, starting, gallery, rules, publicity, tickets and finance and prizes. Decision on admission and prizes for amateurs was deferred to the last meeting.

Members of the advisory committee are:

Arthur R. Hodeman, John Westmoreland, Ernest G. Jackson, Howard Beckett, Harry Stephens, Tom Wright, K. Laflon, Dan Doherty, Gen. Dahlberg, Paul Duke, J. R. Crouch, O. R. Koehler, Jimmy Jones, Ed Doherty, Dan Doherty, Dan Doherty, Dan Doherty, Keith Conway, George Sargent, Thomas R. Paine, Norman Elsas, Wiley Moore, J. C. Shaffer, F. W. Faxon, George H. Yancey, Ralph McGill, Ed Miles, Jimmy Burns, Bridges.

Boys' High Swimmers Defeat 'Y' Team

Mat Tournament Begins at Emory

The annual all-campus wrestling tournament will begin this afternoon at Emory with first-round matches scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock at the school gym. All students except freshmen will be eligible.

There will be five weight divisions, and victory letters will be awarded to the winners in each class. Rounds will be held each Thursday and Monday afternoon till the tourney is completed.

The freshman tournament ended Monday with Ted Ward, Bowen David and Paul Hughes winning the titles in the three classes.

Y-Civic League

The big series in the last half of the Y-Civic program will be held on the Y. M. C. A. court with the May's Laundry-Warren's Refrigerator game climaxing the series. These clubs are deadlocked for first place and the winner of the semi-final series the losers will be practically out of the race.

Linens Service Co. vs. Davison-Faxon at 7 p. m.; May's Laundry vs. Dental College at 7:30 p. m.; Kraft Cheese Co. vs. DeMolay Club at 8:20 p. m.; Warren Co. vs. May's Laundry at 8:40 p. m.

Babe Dons Braves' Attire---Takes First Workout

Here's Babe Ruth in a Braves uniform. Of course, it was a borrowed one and didn't quite fit, but it will give you some idea of the way he'll look in the National league this summer. The home run king took his first workout at St. Petersburg, where Boston is training, and the hot sun turned his white skin to red. Nevertheless, he proved he still can swing on the ball and draw in the customers.

SOUTHWESTERN NAMES PROPS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 6.—(AP) Chico (Shorty) Propst, coach at Howard College, Birmingham, Ala., tonight was named athletic director and head football coach at Southwestern College of Memphis, to succeed Jimmy DeHart, who died Monday at Winslow-Salem, N. C.

Dr. Charles E. Diehl, president of Southwestern, said he had talked by long-distance telephone with Propst and that the former University of Alabama gridiron star had agreed to salary terms.

"He will report here next Monday," Dr. Diehl said.

The Southwestern football squad is in its second week of spring training, under the direction of John Miller, assistant coach.

Propst played center on the University of Alabama team in 1923 and 1924. He later served under Wallace Wade and Frank Thomas on the coaching staff of the Crimson Tide. He has been at Howard one year.

DeHart died a month after he was named to succeed Jimmy Haygood, who succeeded DeHart in Little Rock, Ark., on January 18.

Bluebirds Lose To Terrors, 36-33

The Terrors won from the Bluebirds in a hotly contested game for the championship of the FERA basketball league which was played at Bass Gym. High courts last night.

The situation looked bad for the Bluebirds, but they won the first to second half when an unexpected rally in the last quarter gave them the edge and a finish of 36 to 33.

Atlantans In Europe Make Plans To Assemble at Rome for Easter

By Sally Forth.

WITH the Lenten season here, the forthcoming days of solemnity will climax in Easter, the celebration of the greatest of all Christian feasts. Quite naturally one thinks of the glory of the day in Old World atmosphere and the phrase, "All roads lead to Rome," is quite apropos. In Rome this year, joining in the celebration at the square of St. Peter's, as the church bells ring out the glory of the feast, will be the nobility of Europe, representatives from all walks of life and strangers from all over the world. In the latter category will be a foursome of prominent Atlantans whose sojourn to the Old World has lengthened the period of several months.

Last September, Mrs. William Ott Alston and her children, Peggy, Frances and Ott Jr., sailed for Europe, where they established residence. The trip, incidentally, carried out a plan cherished for many years by Mr. and Mrs. Alston, in that their children should have the advantages of a year in foreign study and travel. For the past three months, Mrs. Alston and Frances have enjoyed the beauties and advantages afforded at Nice. At the same time, Peggy Alston has been pursuing her education at the Sorbonne in Paris, and Ott Jr., over in Switzerland, has been studying in Zurich.

Now, however, Mrs. Alston and Frances have gone to Italy and will be joined at Rome by Peggy and Ott Jr. For the next two months the foursome will spend leisurely days of travel and enjoyment throughout the Italian country, rich in historical and Old World background, where famous architectural works stand as a monument to an age which the passing of time has found impossible to erase.

It is quite natural that the Alstons have arranged their schedule so as to be in Rome for Easter Sunday. On that day all Rome is awake at 6 o'clock and by 7 the crowds cross the ancient Tiber over its many bridges and file into the narrow Borgo Nuovo. When the solemn mass begins at St. Peter's, music from the most famous choir of the world is heard. At the consecration of the mass the pope holds aloft the consecrated host and the trumpets blast a salutation to the Lord God of Hosts.

Surely the attendance at this holy feast will live forever in the minds of the Alstons, and their many friends here will be delighted to learn that their presence in Italy at this time will offer an opportunity to view the impressive spectacle. Their return to the States is planned for the first part of June.

THE Atlanta colony at Miami was augmented on Monday by Colonel Benjamin Mart Bailey and Mrs. Bailey, who are visiting Mrs. William J. McKenna at her villa at the Royal apartments at the 32d and Collins avenue section of the beach. The society journals are ardent in their welcome given to Mrs. McKenna, who is being greeted by her host of Miami friends.

Mrs. Bailey appeared at the Bath Club, that smartest of all smart places on the beach, gowned in a beige linen frock, which was worn with brown hat and shoes. Mrs. McKenna brought "ples," the colored butler who has been in her family for 35 years, to take charge of her attractive manager.

Eldridge Boyd, son of Mrs. Isaac Boyd and sister of Betty Boyd Howell, erstwhile Atlantan, is part owner and manager of the swanky Beach and Cabana Club. His brother-in-law, Max Don Howell, who is Betty Boyd's husband, has been elected vice president of the Chemical National Bank of New York. Mrs. Boyd is among the notable visitors on the beach.

CREATING a stir of excitement on Wednesday morning out at the North Avenue Presbyterian school was the election of Dorothy Davis, Nelle Echols and Elaine Robey as members of the Cecilian Club. Hearts beat faster among the students as they gathered in the school auditorium to hear final selections announced for this high honor.

For several weeks trials have been held, in which a large majority of the student body participated. The keen, observing eyes of the experienced members of the Dramatic Club, as well as those of Mrs. Winifred Peeks, faculty adviser, watched the efforts of the young actresses. It was no easy task for these judges to select the three girls displaying the best talent in the trials. However, Sally is sure that when the delightful play, "Three-Cornered Moon," is presented on March

Phi Chi Theta Will Celebrate National Founder's Day Sunday

Upsilon chapter of Phi Chi Theta at the University System of Georgia evening school will celebrate national founders' day on Sunday, March 10, at 9 o'clock, with a breakfast at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Phi Chi Theta was founded in 1924 by the union of two sororities—Phi Theta Kappa and Phi Kappa Epsilon. There are at present, 21 collegiate chapters and nine alumnae chapters from Portland, Oregon, to Boston, Massachusetts. Mrs. Frances Haskell, who acts as national president, the speaker of the morning will be Mrs. Ross Fletcher, assistant principal of Commercial High school. A fitting program in celebration of founders' day has been planned.

Covers will be placed for Dr. George M. Sparks, director of the University System of the evening school; Miss Ross Fletcher, assistant principal of Commercial High school; Misses Haskins.

Friendly Counsel

Dear Miss Chatfield: Occasionally I stop over, during a business trip, in a city where I have an old friend. She was never a sweetheart, just a friend of bachelors' days. She is still unmarried and lives at home with her parents. Isn't it entirely legitimate for me to give her a ring on the phone, to accept an invitation to dine with her and her family? Should friend wife have any concern over this, or be distressed by it? Has she the right to ask me to forego this innocent pastime when business and train schedules leave time on my hands? FAITHFUL HUSBAND.

Miss Ruth Beacham Honors Anoma Class.

Miss Ruth Beacham, of 927 Courtland drive, N. E., entertained the officers of the Anoma class of the Baptist Tabernacle at her home recently. Reports of officers and plans for the work of the class during the coming month were the main features of the business meeting.

Those present were: Mrs. R. E. W. McWhorter, teacher; Misses E. B. Goodwin, H. L. Allen, Mrs. D. F. Fine, Ernest Frank Lee, J. C. Walters, J. B. Heirs, G. W. Trice, R. C. Walker, Roy Latimer, Julia Whaley, Wylie Stephens, Maxie Starner, T. D. Freyman, W. A. Acree; Misses Ludlow, Ruth Beacham, Lillian Lee Elliott.

T. E. L. Class.

Business and social meeting of the T. E. L. class of the Baptist Tabernacle was held Thursday and Mrs. J. H. Davis gave the musical program and chose for her subject "Christian Citizenship." Mrs. R. S. McWhorter sang a group of songs accompanied at the piano by Miss Sara Newbern. Letters and telegrams from absent members were read.

W. E. K. Wright, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, spoke. The red, white and blue note was employed in the effective decorations. Many visitors and 65 members were present.

HOW I KEEP MY FIGURE

By CLAIRE TREVOR

Did you ever know a girl who is just like a Jack-in-the-Box? Who can never sit still for 5 minutes at a time? Well, if she is not rushing to and from the dance studios, is rushing from wardrobe department to make-up department, thence to the sound stage on which she works, rushing to lunch, rushing back to work, rushing round the stores to stock the kitchen ice box, then on the way home, and dashes off to her room.

He is not a good boy in a way she is not. He is out and gone most of the time. She can't police him if she would. The most she can do is to make him love her and then trust to his loyalty. When she makes a few abortive innocent pastimes he has no time to do anything but a step to it, she may make him wary about confiding in her. Even a little child won't confide in the parent if punishment is the price of the confidence and a man is just a child, grown with all that childlike proclivities for playing him off in a wretched and telling her what he has done. But, oh, so soon he becomes sly and secretive if he gets punishment for his confidence.

A poor woman never learns that a man can't be held against his will. Her jealous ravings, her monopolistic demands, her reminders that she wouldn't treat him as he is treated in the army, the way she is the way of love and loyalty and yet if she is one of these possessive creatures who is content with nothing less than a pre-empting of her husband's heart and mind she keeps on trying by these devices to make him knuckle to her will.

Some men, to keep the peace, finally give in to the slavery but they are a little resentful and bitter over what they feel is great injustice. Others resort to trickery and still others go headily along their way. The woman is at the mercy of the man who loves her. He is not a good boy in a way she is not. He is out and gone most of the time. She can't police him if she would. The most she can do is to make him love her and then trust to his loyalty. When she makes a few abortive innocent pastimes he has no time to do anything but a step to it, she may make him wary about confiding in her. Even a little child won't confide in the parent if punishment is the price of the confidence and a man is just a child, grown with all that childlike proclivities for playing him off in a wretched and telling her what he has done. But, oh, so soon he becomes sly and secretive if he gets punishment for his confidence.

Yes, a woman is at the mercy of the man she loves and she is not only at the mercy of his love but at the mercy of his character. For he may love her and lack the capacity for loyalty. He may love her and, in his selfishness, deliberately do the things that pain her.

Is it entirely legitimate for a married man to ring up an old friend and make a date when he is away from home? Yes, but if his wife is distressed about his doing it, surely it is not expedient for him to do it. He is putting his momentary pleasure against her heartaches and in the end he must pay for it, even though his wife is the unreasonable one.

Answer: There are two answers to this question, of course. A wife shouldn't be distressed over her husband's desire to spend leisure hours away from home with an old friend, nor should she make a row over it. Therefore it is entirely legitimate for him to give his friend a ring on the phone, to accept an invitation to dine with her and her family? Should friend wife have any concern over this, or be distressed by it? Has she the right to ask me to forego this innocent pastime when business and train schedules leave time on my hands? FAITHFUL HUSBAND.

Answer: There are two answers to this question, of course. A wife shouldn't be distressed over her husband's desire to spend leisure hours away from home with an old friend, nor should she make a row over it. Therefore it is entirely legitimate for him to give his friend a ring on the phone, to accept an invitation to dine with her and her family? Should friend wife have any concern over this, or be distressed by it? Has she the right to ask me to forego this innocent pastime when business and train schedules leave time on my hands? FAITHFUL HUSBAND.

By G. A. PHILLIPS.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(P)—The bond market was temporarily thrown off balance by developments in Washington today and its usual poise was not recovered by some divisions before the session ended with prices irregular.

United States government obligations were badly upset when the short-lived spark of inflation was set off by President Roosevelt's pronouncement on prices and debts and although slight improvement followed, White House dealers that this should be interpreted as indicating that the dollar would be further devalued, closed prices were from 4-32¢ to nearly 1-1 point lower. The government turnover was the heaviest in some time, aggregating $1,500,000.

In the corporate division, the first impulse seemed to be to get rid of high-grade bonds, because of their definitely limited earnings, and buy speculative issues that had come out of price advancement at the lowest low levels. This trend, however, was most rapidly reversed within hours of 1 to 2 points in a large number of secondary loans while minor advances outnumbered declines in prime investments.

The Associated Press averages of 20 rails declined 8¢ of a point to $11.40, the 35¢ low, and the averages for industrials, utilities, foreign and low-yield bonds were 2¢ of a point higher to 8¢ of a point lower.

Baltimore & Ohio funding 6 declined 2¢ to 62¢, and Southern Railway Consolidated 6 yielded 1-2 to 37.

American Telephone Debenture 5s closed 1-1 higher at 11-38¢ after dipping to 11-12 during the nervous trading shortly before noon. Other losing minor fractions included American Smelting & Shell Pipe Line 3s. Slightly higher levels were established by Liggett & Myers 5s, Chesapeake Corporation 5s and West Penn Power.

The foreign section was unsettled. Transfers aggregated $26,661,000, par value, compared with $14,210,000 on Tuesday.
